1. PURPOSE AND COMMITMENT

Truleaf Foods Private Limited ("Truleaf" or "the Company") is committed to conducting business honestly, fairly, responsibly and in compliance with applicable laws. We value the trust of our employees, customers, suppliers, processors, service providers, agents, brokers, regulators and other stakeholders.

This Code of Conduct & Business Ethics ("Code") sets the minimum standards of behaviour expected when representing or working with Truleaf. It is intended to guide decisions in day-to-day operations and in situations where the appropriate course of action may not be immediately clear.

Our commitment is expressed through the following principles:

- Integrity and transparency in every business dealing.
- Safe, lawful and accurately represented food products.
- Respect for people, human rights, dignity and equal opportunity.
- Fair competition and responsible international trade.
- Accountability, protection of information and responsible use of Company resources.
- Continuous improvement in quality, food safety and environmental performance.

This Code is a policy statement and does not replace applicable legislation, contracts, the Company's detailed procedures or professional legal advice. Where a law or contract imposes a higher standard, that higher standard must be followed.

2. SCOPE AND RESPONSIBILITIES

This Code applies to:

- All directors, officers, managers, permanent and temporary employees, trainees and interns of Truleaf, irrespective of location or designation.
- Consultants, contractors, representatives and other persons acting on behalf of Truleaf, to the extent relevant to their engagement.
- Suppliers, manufacturers, processors, packers, warehouses, logistics providers, agents, brokers and other business partners are expected to comply with the applicable principles of this Code or equivalent standards, as reflected in contracts, purchase orders or onboarding requirements.

2.1 Individual responsibilities

- Read, understand and comply with this Code and applicable Company procedures.
- Complete assigned compliance, food safety, quality and workplace training.
- Act honestly; maintain accurate records; protect Company and third-party information.
- Ask for guidance before acting where legality or ethics is uncertain.
- Promptly report suspected misconduct, unsafe or non-compliant products, fraud, harassment or other serious concerns.

2.2 Management responsibilities

- Lead by example and communicate expectations clearly.
- Provide suitable resources, training and controls to manage compliance risks.
- Assess reports objectively, preserve confidentiality as far as practicable and prevent retaliation.
- Ensure disciplinary action is fair, proportionate and consistent with applicable law and employment terms.

3. COMPLIANCE WITH LAWS AND REGULATIONS

Truleaf will comply with laws and regulatory requirements applicable to its activities in India and in every market in which it operates. Employees and business partners must not knowingly cause the Company to violate a law, regulatory condition, licence, permit, contractual obligation or lawful authority direction.

Depending on the activity, product, location and applicable thresholds, relevant requirements may include:

- Food Safety and Standards Act, 2006 and applicable FSSAI regulations, including licensing, food standards, hygiene, packaging, labelling, claims, imports, traceability and recall requirements.

- Companies Act, 2013 and applicable rules, statutory filings, governance and record-retention obligations.
- Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 and other applicable anti-bribery and anti-corruption laws.
- Competition Act, 2002, as amended, and rules governing fair competition.
- Foreign Trade (Development and Regulation) Act, 1992; Foreign Trade Policy; Customs Act, 1962; FEMA, 1999; and applicable DGFT, RBI, export-control and sanctions requirements.
- Applicable GST, income-tax, TDS, accounting, invoicing and other fiscal requirements.
- Digital Personal Data Protection Act, 2023 and rules/commencement notifications, and other privacy and information-security requirements applicable at the relevant time.
- Applicable labour and workplace laws, including the four Labour Codes brought into effect from 21 November 2025, and applicable central/state rules and notifications.
- Sexual Harassment of Women at Workplace (Prevention, Prohibition and Redressal) Act, 2013; child and adolescent labour laws; and other applicable employment protections.
- Legal Metrology Act, 2009 and applicable packaged commodity rules, where relevant; Consumer Protection Act, 2019; environmental, waste-management and pollution-control requirements.

No list can cover every law or amendment. The Company will identify legal requirements relevant to each activity and location, maintain required licences and registrations, and monitor changes. Employees must escalate regulatory notices, inspections, product holds, customs queries and suspected violations to the authorised manager promptly.

4. BUSINESS INTEGRITY: ANTI-BRIBERY, GIFTS AND FACILITATION PAYMENTS

Truleaf prohibits bribery, kickbacks, extortion, secret commissions, improper inducements and any other corrupt practice, whether involving a public servant or a person in the private sector. No employee or representative may offer, promise, authorise, give, request or accept an improper advantage to obtain or retain business, secure a permit, influence an inspection, obtain confidential information or gain an unfair benefit.

4.1 Public officials and regulatory dealings

All dealings with government departments, regulators, customs officials, port authorities, inspection agencies and public-sector entities must be lawful, transparent and properly documented. Only official fees supported by valid government notifications, challans or receipts may be paid. Facilitation payments or unofficial cash payments to speed up routine actions are prohibited.

4.2 Gifts, hospitality and entertainment

Gifts and hospitality must never influence, or appear to influence, a business decision. They must be lawful, modest, infrequent, transparent, proportionate and consistent with customary business practice. Cash and cash equivalents, personal favours, lavish entertainment and gifts intended to influence a tender, audit, inspection or purchase decision are prohibited.

Employees must obtain prior written approval from the authorised management representative before offering or accepting gifts or hospitality where value, frequency, timing or circumstances could create a conflict or appearance of impropriety. The Company should maintain a gifts and hospitality register. Gifts to public officials are prohibited unless specifically confirmed as lawful and approved in writing by authorised management.

4.3 Third parties and commissions

Agents, brokers, consultants, customs intermediaries and other representatives must be selected through reasonable due diligence, have a legitimate business purpose, receive commercially reasonable documented remuneration, and agree to comply with anti-bribery requirements. Unusual commissions, cash payments, payments to unrelated accounts or requests to split invoices must be escalated and not processed without documented review.

5. CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

A conflict of interest arises when personal, family, financial or outside business interests interfere, may interfere, or could reasonably appear to interfere with a person's ability to act in Truleaf's best interests.

- Disclose any personal or family relationship with a supplier, customer, competitor, service provider or candidate where you influence the relevant decision.
- Do not participate in selection, pricing, approval, inspection or payment decisions where you have an undisclosed personal interest.
- Do not use Company information, position, assets or opportunities for personal gain or to benefit friends or relatives.
- Obtain written approval before accepting outside employment, directorships, consultancy or business interests that may conflict with Company duties.
- Disclose gifts, hospitality, financial interests or close relationships that could affect impartiality.

Disclosures must be made promptly to the reporting manager or authorised compliance contact. Management will assess the facts and decide on safeguards, recusal or other appropriate action. A disclosed conflict is not automatically misconduct; failure to disclose or manage it may be.

6. FAIR COMPETITION AND RESPONSIBLE TRADING

Truleaf competes on the merits of its products, service, quality, reliability and commercial terms. Employees must comply with competition law and must not coordinate with competitors in ways that restrict competition.

- Do not agree with competitors to fix prices, margins, discounts, fees, bids, output, supply, territories, customers or market allocation.
- Do not exchange commercially sensitive information with competitors, including future pricing, costs, customer-specific terms, volumes, strategy or tender intentions, except where a lawful arrangement has been reviewed and approved.
- Do not engage in bid-rigging, market sharing, predatory or exclusionary conduct, or misleading comparisons.
- Do not obtain competitor information through deception, improper inducements or breach of confidentiality.
- Seek legal or management review before entering exclusivity, distribution restrictions, joint purchasing, collaboration or other arrangements that may raise competition concerns.

For cross-border trade, the Company will conduct proportionate checks on counterparties, beneficial ownership where appropriate, country of origin, destination, end use, banks, carriers and relevant restrictions. Transactions must not proceed where prohibited by applicable Indian law or applicable foreign sanctions/export-control requirements relevant to the transaction. Any doubt must be escalated before commitment or shipment.

7. FOOD SAFETY, QUALITY AND PRODUCT INTEGRITY

Food safety and product integrity are fundamental to Truleaf's business. We will only source, handle, store, trade, import or export food products that meet applicable legal, customer and agreed specification requirements.

- Maintain valid licences, registrations, approvals and permissions relevant to the activity and premises.
- Approve and monitor suppliers and processors using risk-based criteria, including food safety controls, capability, legal status, traceability and performance.
- Ensure product specifications, ingredient/allergen information, country of origin, grade, shelf life, packaging, storage and transport conditions are accurately agreed and communicated.
- Maintain lot/batch identification and records that enable traceability through relevant suppliers, processors, warehouses, customers and shipments.
- Do not knowingly buy, sell, release or dispatch unsafe, adulterated, misbranded, counterfeit, expired, contaminated or non-conforming food.
- Do not alter, conceal or falsify test reports, certificates of analysis, health certificates, organic certificates, inspection reports, labels, weights, dates or product origin.

- Ensure product claims, including organic, natural, non-GMO, allergen-free, sustainability, nutritional and quality claims, are substantiated and legally permitted.
- Maintain appropriate complaint, non-conformance, product hold, withdrawal and recall escalation processes. Promptly report any food safety concern to the designated food safety/quality responsible person.
- Use competent laboratories and appropriate testing where risk, law, customer specification or the food safety plan requires it.

No commercial target or customer pressure justifies compromising food safety, legality or product authenticity. Where product safety or compliance is in doubt, place the product or transaction on hold and escalate for documented assessment.

8. RESPONSIBLE SOURCING, SUPPLIERS AND BUSINESS PARTNERS

Truleaf seeks long-term business relationships based on fairness, transparency, reliability and responsible practices. Supplier and partner selection must be based on objective and documented criteria such as legal status, product safety, quality, technical capability, service, price, delivery, financial and reputational risk, ethical conduct and sustainability.

- Conduct risk-based onboarding and verification before engaging suppliers, agents, brokers, processors, warehouses and logistics providers.
- Communicate relevant product specifications, food safety requirements, ethical expectations and contractual obligations clearly.
- Do not knowingly engage in child labour, forced labour, human trafficking, abusive working conditions or serious unlawful discrimination.
- Do not request or accept false documents, undeclared substitutions, unauthorised subcontracting or concealed changes in product origin or manufacturing site.
- Monitor supplier performance and address complaints, audit findings, non-conformities and corrective actions proportionately.
- Treat suppliers fairly, honour agreed payment terms and avoid coercion, undisclosed commissions or improper preferential treatment.

Where appropriate, Truleaf may require suppliers and business partners to sign this Code, a supplier declaration or equivalent contractual commitments. The Company may suspend or discontinue a relationship where serious or repeated violations are not adequately addressed, subject to contract and law.

9. ACCURATE RECORDS, FINANCE, TAX AND TRADE DOCUMENTATION

All business records must be complete, accurate, timely, understandable and retained in accordance with applicable law and Company procedures. Records include contracts, purchase orders, invoices, credit/debit notes, ledgers, bank records, expense claims, payroll, tax returns, inventory, quality records, test reports, shipping documents and electronic communications used for business.

- Record transactions in the correct period, account and legal entity; do not create false, misleading, duplicate or off-book records.
- Issue and accept invoices, e-way bills, e-invoices, shipping bills, bills of entry, certificates and declarations only when accurate and supported by underlying records.
- Do not misstate product description, HS/HSN code, quantity, weight, value, country of origin, tariff classification, end use, buyer/seller identity or shipment route.
- Do not split transactions, disguise beneficiaries, use personal bank accounts for Company receipts/payments or make payments to unapproved third-party accounts.
- Process expenses and reimbursements only when genuine, business-related, supported by appropriate evidence and approved under delegated authority.
- Cooperate honestly with statutory auditors, tax authorities, customs authorities, certification bodies and other lawful reviewers.

Suspected fraud, diversion of funds, false documentation, tax evasion, money laundering or irregular payment requests must be reported immediately. Records subject to an audit, investigation, dispute or legal hold must not be destroyed or altered.

10. HUMAN RIGHTS, LABOUR PRACTICES AND RESPECTFUL WORKPLACE

Truleaf is committed to a workplace where every person is treated with dignity and respect. Employment decisions must be based on role requirements, competence, performance and legitimate business needs, in accordance with applicable law.

- Prohibit child labour, forced labour, bonded labour, human trafficking, coercion and unlawful retention of identity documents or wages.
- Provide equal opportunity and do not tolerate unlawful discrimination, bullying, intimidation, violence or harassment.
- Respect lawful wages, working hours, leave, social security, benefits and employment conditions applicable to the establishment and worker category.
- Do not tolerate sexual harassment. Complaints must be handled under the Company's POSH policy and the Sexual Harassment of Women at Workplace Act, 2013. Where legally required, the Company shall constitute an Internal Committee and display required information; complaints may also be made to the Local Committee as provided by law.
- Protect complainant and witness confidentiality to the extent practicable and required by law; prohibit retaliation against anyone who raises a concern in good faith.
- Respect freedom of association and lawful worker representation rights, subject to applicable law.
- Provide appropriate induction, role-specific training and clear communication of workplace rules.

The Company will maintain separate detailed HR, POSH, grievance, disciplinary and employment procedures as required. This Code does not replace those procedures.

11. HEALTH, SAFETY AND ENVIRONMENTAL RESPONSIBILITY

Truleaf will take reasonable steps to provide safe and healthy working conditions at offices, warehouses, facilities and other workplaces under its control, in accordance with applicable law.

- Follow workplace safety instructions, emergency procedures, fire safety requirements and authorised access rules.
- Use suitable personal protective equipment and safe handling practices where required.
- Promptly report accidents, injuries, near misses, unsafe conditions, pest activity, contamination risks, chemical spills and other hazards.
- Do not work under the influence of alcohol or prohibited drugs, or engage in violence, threats or unsafe conduct.
- Store chemicals, cleaning agents and hazardous materials safely, with appropriate identification and segregation.
- Use water, energy, packaging and other resources responsibly; reduce waste and prevent pollution where practicable.
- Comply with applicable environmental, waste, plastic packaging, pollution-control and transport requirements relevant to Company operations.

Employees must never bypass a safety control or continue an operation where there is an immediate serious risk. Stop the activity where safe to do so and notify the responsible manager.

12. CONFIDENTIALITY, PRIVACY, INFORMATION SECURITY AND INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

Employees and business partners must protect confidential and personal information obtained through their relationship with Truleaf. Confidential information includes prices, margins, customer and supplier lists, contracts, product formulations, specifications, test results, business plans, credentials, financial information and non-public operational information.

- Use confidential information only for authorised business purposes and share it only with persons who need it for that purpose and are authorised to receive it.
- Do not disclose confidential information externally without approval and, where appropriate, a confidentiality agreement, except where disclosure is legally required.

- Collect and process personal data only for legitimate, specified business purposes and in accordance with applicable data protection law and Company instructions.
- Use approved devices, software, passwords and storage locations; protect credentials and report suspected phishing, malware, loss of devices or data breaches immediately.
- Respect intellectual property rights belonging to Truleaf, customers, suppliers and third parties. Do not use unlicensed software, copied artwork, trademarks, photographs or technical materials.
- Return or securely delete Company information and assets when access is no longer required, subject to legal retention requirements.

The Digital Personal Data Protection Act, 2023 and the Digital Personal Data Protection Rules, 2025 have phased commencement provisions. The Company will apply the provisions in force at the relevant time and maintain its privacy practices in line with applicable law.

13. COMPANY ASSETS, AUTHORITY AND EXTERNAL COMMUNICATIONS

Company property, funds, equipment, vehicles, IT systems, software, records and intellectual property must be protected and used responsibly for legitimate business purposes. Limited incidental personal use, if permitted by Company policy, must not interfere with work, create risk or incur unauthorised cost.

Only persons with delegated authority may sign contracts, approve credit, commit expenditure, issue guarantees, make regulatory declarations, appoint agents or represent the Company. Employees must not make commitments outside their authority or imply that a personal view is an official Company position.

External statements, press responses, website content, social media posts, product claims and customer communications must be accurate, professional and approved where required. Employees must not disclose confidential information or make unverified claims about certifications, approvals, product origin, quality or regulatory status.

14. SPEAK-UP, INVESTIGATION AND NON-RETALIATION

Anyone covered by this Code is encouraged and expected to report suspected violations, including bribery, fraud, conflicts of interest, unsafe food, false records, harassment, discrimination, unlawful trade, data breaches or serious supplier misconduct.

14.1 Reporting channels

Reports may be made to the immediate reporting manager, HR representative, Quality/Food Safety responsible person, Compliance Coordinator or any director. If the concern involves that person, or the reporter is uncomfortable using that channel, the report may be made directly to another director or the Board-designated contact.

Company contact details for reporting must be completed before issue:

Compliance / Ethics contact	Ranies Charles Selvaraj / Director, Charles.r@truleaf.in
HR / POSH contact	Vethamanickam / HR, hr@truleaf.in
Food Safety / Quality contact	Ranies Charles Selvaraj / Director, Charles.r@truleaf.in
Board / escalation contact	John Wesley / Director, john.s@truleaf.in

14.2 Handling of reports

- Reports will be acknowledged where contact details are provided and where practicable.
- The Company will assess the concern, determine whether immediate containment or product/customer/regulatory notification is needed, and appoint an impartial reviewer.
- Information will be shared only with those who need to know, subject to fairness, legal obligations and the need to investigate.
- Relevant records and evidence will be preserved. The person concerned will be given a fair opportunity to respond where appropriate.
- Corrective action, disciplinary action, supplier action or external reporting will be taken where justified and lawful.

Truleaf prohibits retaliation against any person who raises a concern in good faith, participates in an investigation or refuses to participate in conduct that would violate this Code. Knowingly false or malicious allegations may themselves be addressed under applicable procedures; a report that cannot be substantiated is not, by itself, evidence of bad faith.

15. TRAINING, MONITORING, BREACHES AND REVIEW

The Company will communicate this Code to relevant personnel and, where appropriate, business partners. Training and acknowledgement may be recorded. Management will periodically review compliance risks, reported concerns, supplier performance, food safety incidents, audit findings and corrective actions.

A breach may result in counselling, retraining, access restriction, disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment or engagement, contract suspension or termination, recovery of losses, or referral to competent authorities, depending on the facts, severity, applicable law and contractual rights. All action will be fair, proportionate and consistent with applicable procedures.

This Code will be reviewed at least annually and whenever there is a material change in law, business model, risk profile or organisational structure. Amendments require approval by the Board or authorised management.

ANNEXURE A – PRACTICAL DECISION GUIDE

Before taking an action, ask yourself:

1. Is it legal and consistent with this Code and Company procedures?
2. Is it honest, fair and transparent?
3. Could it compromise food safety, product legality, quality or traceability?
4. Would I be comfortable if the decision appeared in an audit report, customer communication or public news?
5. Have I disclosed any personal interest and obtained required approval?
6. Are the records, documents and payments accurate and properly authorised?
7. If I am uncertain, have I paused and sought guidance before proceeding?

If the answer to any question raises concern, do not proceed until you have consulted the appropriate manager or compliance contact.

ANNEXURE B – DECLARATION AND ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I acknowledge that I have received or been given access to the Truleaf Foods Private Limited Code of Conduct & Business Ethics. I understand that I am responsible for reading, understanding and following the provisions applicable to my role. I will seek clarification when required and promptly report concerns in good faith. I understand that violations may result in action in accordance with applicable law, Company policy and contractual terms.
